Acts 2:1-13

If you knew someone was heading for a disaster, would you not warn them? If cars were speeding down the highway and the bridge was out, would you not give a warning?

In the 1950s people witnessed great revivals in America. Billy Graham preached in American cities and in 184 other countries. The Holy Spirit convicted, and many people turned from their sins. The Spirit is still available today as it was at the Day of Pentecost. God's promises are still true, and people are still lost and need God.

It takes the power of the Holy Spirit to change the hearts of men and women. The problem is that Christians are not availing themselves of that power.

When the Holy Spirit came at Pentecost in Jerusalem, it was an unusual event. What the church today needs more than anything else is the fervor and power which the early church displayed. People today are busy. Their personal needs interrupt their spiritual lives. Oh, how we need revival! Pray for revival today.
