Hebrews 2:14—3:6

Driving my 5-year-old home from school he asked, “I know Jesus was with God and the Holy Spirit during creation, but who created Jesus?” My first thought was that I had done a pretty good job teaching my son about Jesus’ divinity. Then I said, “We take some things completely on faith. God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit are uncreated.”

The writer of Hebrews uses the image of building a house to illustrate who Jesus is. Jesus is compared to Moses, and Moses is a part of the construction team, but Jesus is the builder. Jesus deserves glory not because He was born as a baby but because He is the uncreated God, building before time began. We take the image of Jesus as a builder on faith and we trust God to continue building our picture of who Jesus is.

Jesus is worthy of praise and worship because we have waited all Advent season for the beauty of this celebration. Jesus is here, intentionally born to intentionally save all of us.
